The music floats among us in the classroom. I stand in front of my students telling them about sentence fragments. I ask them to find the ten fragments in the twenty-one-sentence paragraph on page forty-five. They’ve come from all parts of the world—Iran, Micronesia, Africa, Japan, China, even Los Angeles—and they're still eager to please me.

A Year of Being Here: Al Zolynas: "Love in the Classroom"

Although love may be an important quality for teachers to have, educator training programs usually concentrate on teaching methods, not on how to care for students. This deficiency may stem from a number of assumptions: 1) that love is a natural attribute of any teacher, 2) that teachers will express love spontaneously in the classroom, and
