The Logic of Marx's Capital, Replies to Hegelian Criticisms

Summary. "Tony Smith has now written a book that conclusively demonstrates that Marx's commitment to Hegelian dialectic is much more thoroughgoing, fundamental, and central to Marx's thought than anyone had previously seen. He has done a brilliant job in demonstrating the Hegelian dialectical logic that structures Capital.

The Logic of Marx's Capital

Capital is of immense significance to the further development of dialectical logic in our own day and for working out cardinal problems of epistemology. Emphasizing the exceptional significance to philosophy and logic of Marx's principal scientific work, Lenin wrote: "If Marx did not leave us a Logic, he did leave us the logic of Capital, something that should be utilized to the full in the ...

Marx's sociology of capital in capitalist societies is not applicable to so many capitalist societies. This is the case particularly with the Asiatic societies which do not show any class conflict in spite of social stratification. Hence Marx's predictions about the downfall of capitalism have not come true everywhere.
